Being Jewish, marrying Jewish, staying Jewish

Lilon is a direct, enthusiastic, democratically society is one of the blessings we have today – yet, inevitably, such liberalism comes with its own formidable challenges. In a world of constant change, how do we maintain strong Jewish roots? In a world of democratised information and instant communication, how do we continue passing on our ancient tradition to the next generation? In a world of equality and acceptance, why should we marry Jews? Most fundamentally, in a world where identity itself is in question, what does it mean to be a Jew?

Acclaimed relationships and parenting partner, Slavie Jungreis-Wolff, tackles the issue of intermarriage at its roots.

Shalom means hello and goodbye. Shalom

RABBI ZEVI LEFF

Rabbi Zev Leff, one of the most colourful and creative Torah scholars in his line, is back. Renowned both in Israel and abroad, Leff has authored many books, articles, and interdisciplinary works. He is particularly known for his ability to weave together seemingly different narrative threads, creating a vivid and inspiring teaching. His style is loved and entertaining regardless of the time scale involved. He is an expert in Jewish mysticism and his insights are appreciated by many. His teaching ability is truly unequalled in the Jewish community.

DAVID SACKS

Known as one of the funniest and deepest speakers at Sinai Indaba, David Sacks brings his deep understanding of life, love, and freedom to create engaging and thought-provoking content. His writing career as editor of Harvard’s satirical magazine, The Lampoon, has been immensely successful and has intersected on radio and TV shows, including CNN with Larry King and the Charlie Rose Show. His work on and after the Sack’s have captured the hearts of thousands of participants on six continents and 40 states, with a strong, spiritual message and unique insight into the human condition. Rabbi Jacobson is truly a master in applying Jewish thought to contemporary life, and he uses this expertise to expose the timeless teachings of the Torah in a modern and relevant way.

RABBINER YEMIMA MIZRACHI

Rabbanit Yemima Mizrachi is a brilliant and creative Torah scholar in her own right. Recently voted one of Israel’s most influential women, Rabbanit Mizrachi is gracing our stage once again to speak straight to the hearts of women in a way only she knows how. Known for her phenomenal energy and wisdom, Rabbanit Mizrachi draws hundreds of people to her talks every week, representing the full gamut of Jewish society. A mother, a qualified lawyer and the granddaughter of Baba Sali, Rabbanit Mizrachi is a unique and exciting personality. As a featured speaker for many organizations and conventions worldwide, she has written a plethora of English language newspapers and magazines. Her message is one of courage, guidance, and connection to the Jewish world.

SLOWEJUNGER WOELFF

Strong, powerful and compassionate, she’s soulful and worldly, she’s steadfast and understanding, and she’s back, Slowew Jungerwoelf is an acclaimed relationship and parenting instructor; her groundbreaking book, Raising a Child with Soul, has been a source of guidance and support to parents and children around the world, providing them with the keys to raising children with gratitude, respect, compassion, and understanding. Born on 24th December, Slowew Jungerwoelf has taught young couples and parents at Fieren International, the pioneering Jewish outreach organization in Jerusalem for young and executive couples. She also writes prolifically on marriage, parenting, spiritual growth and psychological well-being.

ALEX CLARE

Our irrefutable British rock star Alex Clare brings back both his evolving story and his guitar to inspire, uplift and white. In the mid-2000s, Clare decided to change his life and became religious, and lost a record deal due to his observance. However, nothing could stop him from becoming a star, as he has managed to be the #1 hot four number on the UK Singles Chart and number seven on the US Billboard Hot 100. He has been nominated for the World Music Awards and counts Beyoncé and Adele among his fans. Clare is one of the five people in the world with a No.1 hit song three times, and he eloquently shares his understanding and maintenance of a truly becoming music career.

RABBI DR ARVA TATZ

You know him, you love him, and now he’s back with another book! Rabbi Dr Arva Tatzev, a powerhouse in his his guise, returns to Sinai Indaba.
